Responsibility towards the company

Protection of corporate property. We place the highest value on ensuring that company property and information are not used in an unlawful manner. We expressly prohibit, sell, lend or use company property for non-business purposes without permission. It is the duty of each employee to handle company property (e.g. furniture, equipment, company vehicles) responsibly, to treat it carefully and to protect it against loss, damage, misuse, theft, misappropriation or destruction. This regulation also applies to intellectual property such as know-how. This includes business and corporate plans, technical knowledge, databases, product samples, designs, business papers and reports.

Non-compete agreements. Non-competition clauses serve to prevent damage to the company. Their aim is to prevent the transfer of knowledge if an employee moves to a competitor: The use of specific Ritzi expertise at a competitor can cause greater economic damage than the transfer of strategic management knowledge. The non-compete agreements are graded accordingly.

Data protection. Ritzi collects, processes and uses personal data in accordance with data protection regulations and company guidelines. The principle of data economy applies. Documents containing personal data about employees are treated confidentially, stored carefully and disclosed via authorized persons. Data protection incidents are reported immediately to the executive and the data protection officer.

IT and information security. Ritzi ensures an appropriate, complete and concrete level of security of digital data and assets, as well as dependent IT systems. The executives encourage the employees to implement appropriate security measures (passwords, approved technologies and licensed software) to ensure the protection of intellectual property and personal data. All employees do their part to prevent internal and external misuse of IT resources and to comply with security requirements. If security breaches become known, executives must be informed immediately.
